The Power of Story

Presented by Mississippi State University, Lab Rats Improv Comedy

The Mississippi State University Lab Rats is the top student improv troupe in the state. Through workshops and performances, students have found a sense of belonging and an outlet for creativity and imagination. Under the direction of Corin Davis, the Lab Rats have been working with schools and leading workshops with groups off campus.

In this interactive how to workshop, Associate Professor Tonya Hays and members of the Lab Rats will guide teachers through ways to use improv to teach any subject, from literature to math and science. Experience how improv can engage and empower students and be used as a powerful teaching method in the classroom.

9:20 AM RELEARN

Digging Deep: Exploring ELA Through Theatre | Library

Presented by Aliza Moran – Mississippi Whole Schools

Do your students have a tough time with writing and story comprehension? In this session, participants will explore John Walsh's poem "The Bully Asleep" through diverse theatrical processes that will help students connect to the content and aid in achieving those ELA standards.

Teaching Science Through Movement | Choir Room

Presented by Kathryn Wilson – Kinetic Etchings

This workshop is designed to help teachers utilize movement within a science lesson. Topics covered in this session will include: a review of the elements of dance, types of exercises (teacher driven individual, teacher driven group, student driven individual, student driven group), concepts for applying these movement exercises (cycles, patterns, systems, cause and effect, vocabulary understanding and retention, identification of items), and movement as ritual, performance, and collaboration.
